Statement from City of Miami Commissioner Frank Carollo on Diaper-Changing Stations

(Miami, FL March 10, 2015) - "I'd like to invite Ashton Kutcher to the City of Miami, where he can enter a men's restroom in a public facility and find a diaper-changing station to change his young daughter, Wyatt Isabelle. I hope he manages to bring awareness to this issue so that men's restrooms across the nation are fitted with diaper-changing stations. More fathers today are taking active roles in parenting and we need facilities to catch up on the trend," stated Commissioner Carollo.

Commissioner Carollo sponsored legislation in 2012, which was approved by the City Commission, and fund-raised the money to install diaper-changing stations in both the men's and women's restrooms in public facilities within the City of Miami.
